

What's Happening Now - February 2013

Last fall, AITS launched the event registration system, an enterprise service that enables campus departments to offer an online registration system for participants in campus events, camps and conferences.

The system utilizes the FormBuilder application originally built by Liberal Arts & Sciences that is now jointly supported, maintained and enhanced by AITS and ATLAS. As an enterprise service, this system is available to any university department free of charge and allows department staff to set up and manage events without the need for custom development and support. It is a web-based solution that allows the user to:

- Build custom forms with user defined fields, edits, triggers, rules, and decision points
- Establish capacity limits and wait lists
- Generate participant emails
- Produce reports and export event rosters into Excel
- Generate credentials for users or use Enterprise Authentication Service (EAS), Active Directory (AD), or OpenID, for events that require participant authentication
- Interface with iPay for collecting credit card payments

The event registration system is currently in use by the Division of Intercollegiate Athletics (UIUC), Liberal Arts & Sciences (UIUC) and the Office of International Services (UIC). The system will soon be utilized by the Illini Union and the College of Fine and Applied Arts (UIUC).
