

What's Happening Now –April 2014

We are pleased to announce website redesign for the CIO site (www.uillinois.edu/cio) and the AITS site (www.aitis.uillinois.edu). Each site has a different look and feel, improved visibility and simplified navigation.

As you can see, the CIO website has a new look and has changed its location! Please change bookmarks that pointed to our old site to (www.uillinois.edu/cio). The following additions were also made:

- Significant navigational changes
- Look and feel now matches the AITS website
- AITS Twitter feed on landing page

If you have any questions regarding the CIO website, contact Wendy Bertram at wbertram@uillinois.edu.

The AITS website contains several new features, including an events calendar, news and announcements column and popular topics. In April, we are going to install a running Twitter feed from various IT groups affiliated with the University of Illinois. As part of our ongoing maintenance, a team has been formed to look at improving the end user experience. If you encounter difficulties or confusion with the website or if you have ideas for improvement, contact Susan Flanagin at sflanagi@uillinois.edu.

See the feature archive for previous monthly updates.