The campuses of the University of Illinois—Chicago, Springfield and Urbana-Champaign—aspire to brilliance in teaching, research, public service and economic development. The three campuses are distinctive but equally committed to excellence. Students learn in the classroom, the laboratory and the community.

Today, the University of Illinois is the state’s most valuable asset in creating a prosperous future for the people of Illinois, the nation and the world. The U of I educates 70,000 on-campus students a year and thousands more online.

The campuses in Chicago and Urbana-Champaign are comprehensive research universities that advance knowledge and understanding. Each ranks among the top 50 universities nationally for research and development dollars spent in science and engineering. The Springfield campus offers an intimate liberal arts experience with an emphasis on public affairs.

The University makes a significant impact on the economy of the State of Illinois. More than $7 billion swirls through the economy because of the University’s payroll, research, construction projects and its purchases of goods, services and equipment. The University also provides a variety of services and resources to citizens.

A Few Highlights

- The Pampered Chef Family Resiliency Program on the Urbana campus works to strengthen families’ ability to be resilient in the face of life stressors and to successfully navigate the competing demands of work and family.
- Sessions by UIC College of Medicine staff informed Chicago-area businesses about pandemic flu.
- Interns from the UIS Graduate Public Service Internship program apply their class work and serve state agencies.
- The manure-to-oil program teams Urbana scientists from several colleges with industry partners to design a pilot program for a commercial livestock farm that will convert swine manure into crude oil.
- Hundreds of teaching, research and service programs designed to improve urban life are part of the Great Cities Commitment at UIC.
- Forums held throughout the state by Urbana’s College of Veterinary Medicine shared information about the bird flu with the public.

1 Guaranteed 4-year base tuition rate for entering undergraduate students. Graduate rates reflect the general base rate. UIS students enrolled in the Capital Scholars Program are assessed an additional $500.

2 Out-of-state students are charged nearly three times that of in-state students.

3 The following are professional in-state tuition rates; dentistry $20,412; law $18,102; medicine $24,708; pharmacy $13,708; physical therapy $11,810; and veterinary medicine $15,240.

4 Mandatory fees (excluding refundable fees) support student union buildings, recreation, counseling, health services and insurance. A new Academic Facilities Maintenance Fund Assessment was approved and will be phased in over four years. The 2005-06 mandatory fees listed include the Academic Facilities Maintenance Fund Assessment fee, $500 at UIC and UIUC and $8.33 per credit hour at UIS. Medicine students are charged $3,020, UIUC graduate and veterinary medicine students are charged $2,326 and law students are charged $2,356.

5 Rates vary based on room capacity and meal plans.

UIC

Bringing an elite research faculty to an urban mission, UIC offers extraordinary opportunity to all who seek learning in an intense research environment. It is urban and elite; it is elite but not exclusionary; it joins access with excellence. By emphasizing world-class research along with a commitment to students who reflect the diversity of the United States, UIC defines the dynamic and vibrant new urban university.

Financial Aid

Financial aid of $861.1 million assisted U of I students in 2004–05, the latest year for which numbers are available. A total of 147,170 awards were made to 54,534 students in Chicago, Springfield and Urbana-Champaign. “Gift” aid, including scholarships, grants, fellowships and tuition and fee waivers, accounted for 52 percent of the total. Employment and loans covered 48 percent. Students earned more than $133 million from University-related jobs in 2004–05.

UIC’s South Campus

UIC’s South Campus is home to the first fully public “skyspace,” an observatory designed by acclaimed artist James Turrell. Rather than shutting out the urban environment, the skyspace—an elliptical structure supported by columns and lined with benches—focuses on overlooked natural aspects of the urban environment.
JOSE OBERHOLZER, M.D.

Surgeon, clinician and researcher, Jose Oberholzer, M.D., is on the front line of the fight against diabetes. He founded the Chicago Project, an intellectual collaboration among 50 highly specialized health professionals all working to find a cure for a disease that affects more than 190 million children and adults worldwide.

CEASEFIRE

CeaseFire, an initiative of the UIC School of Public Health, partners with community-based organizations to prevent and reduce violence, lowering gun-related deaths an average of 44 percent in Chicago neighborhoods that use the program.
More than 4,700 students enroll at the University of Illinois at Springfield each year to earn a U of I degree on a campus where classes are small and professors truly know their students. The University’s goals of academic excellence, enriching individual lives and making a difference in the world support student success and prepare graduates to contribute to a global community.

The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is the state’s land grant university. Its education, research and public engagement are focused on society’s critical issues and the betterment of humanity, throughout Illinois and around the world. The Urbana campus has a history of excellence built on interdisciplinary scholarship. Traditional academic boundaries are crossed by students and faculty, resulting in new ideas, new perspectives and—ultimately—new knowledge.
